Five steps to bag sliced bread

Cut your bagging costs in half and finish three times faster than manual bagging!

Bagging sliced bread is a thankless job. The last step of the bread making process is always rushed by the delays in baking and cooling, staff pulled away to serve customers and trucks waiting for bread to be loaded.

Mini-Vert Airbagger is the perfect slicer companion and mounts easily to your slicer. The vertical design prevents bread slices from shifting and the patented wings eliminate bag tearing. The next bag inflates instantly and holds it ready for your next loading.

You may mount the bagger to most bread slicers using the optional adjustable mounting bracket. This allows you to position the bagger conveniently for the operator and swing it away when cleaning or servicing the slicer. Table brackets are also available.

You can bag up to 1,200 products per hour but the slicer becomes the slowest point. Most gravity feed slicers can slice about 400 to 500 loaves per hour. Our customers tell us that their staff manually bagging can only bag 100 to 150 loaves per hour and see immediate improvements to the full slicer capacity. Depending on the volume of bread that you do, our baggers can pay for themselves in a few weeks to a few months. No bakery is complete without one!

Save up to 3½ cents on every loaf!

TESTIMONIAL

In 18 years of owning a bakery, I have never come across a piece of equipment that paid for itself so quickly. It was like raising the prices on all our bread products without listening to customer's complaints.
